MINORITIES AND PHILOSOPHY

NATIONAL MENTORSHIP SCHEME

Mentoring is a crucial part of becoming - and improving as - an academic. There's reason to think that marginalised people are less likely to receive adequate informal academic mentoring, for a whole host of reasons. The MAP mentor scheme is designed to redress this imbalance. We have a large team of mentors who can offer you one-to-one online advice on Academic Philosophy, your academic career and experiences of the following in an academic context:

BEING FROM A WORKING CLASS BACKGROUND

Belonging to a Religious Minority Group

Having a disability

Being female

Being a non-native speaker

Living with Mental Health Issues

Being LGBT*

Living with Chronic Illness

Working in Issues of Under-Representation

BEING BME
